D494 Data and Information Governance

Welcome, Study Plan and Course Pacing Guide!

last update: October 2023

NOT SURE WHERE TO START IN THE COURSE?? You are in the right place!

Your D494 instructor team has put together the following guide full of resources and course tips to help you get the most out of this course and to help you pass the course in the most efficient way possible!

Welcome to D494 Data and Information Governance!

In this course you'll be learning Data and Information Governance. which provides you with the knowledge that establishing rules of engagement, policies, procedures, and data stewardship is essential to exercising organizational control over, and extracting maximum value from, its data assets. The course culminates in a Performance Assessment that allows you to show your Data Governance knowledge by applying what you learned to a case study!

D494 STUDY PLAN OUTLINE

This study plan outline is a result of student feedback on what has helped your fellow Night Owls be successful!

Many students find that the most efficient way to complete this course is by studying the text and videos included in the course all the while frequently referring to both the case study and the Performance Assessment instructions to see how your new knowledge may apply to the case study and what the Performance Assessment is asking you to do.

D494 RECOMMENDED STUDY PLAN

1. Study all the details of the case study. Be able to remember and describe the case study without looking at it.

2. Read through all the requirements of the Performance Assessment, including the Task Descriptions as well as the Project Rubric You can access the Performance Assessment by clicking on the View Task link in the Assessment section of your course page.

3. Study all sections of the Learning Resource and watch the included videos.

    a. This contains all the necessary material needed to pass the Performance Assessment.
    b. As you study these, take good notes, and refer to the case study and Performance Assessment instructions.

4. Work through sections A through F of the Performance Assessment one at a time.

Assessment Tips: This Performance Assessment is not a formal paper. Citations, for example, are only needed if you quote or summarize resources (which is not necessary to answer the questions). In this paper you will be answering the four questions lettered A - F. You can create a heading for each question and respond to the question under that heading. There is no minimum length.

D494 COURSE PACING GUIDE

The amount of time any course will take you to complete depends on many factors, including your background, previous experience with the course material, and the amount of time you can devote to studying. Many students can complete this course in 3-4 weeks. To help you stay motivated while making progress toward your goals, your course instructor group has put together a 21-day Challenge! for this course. To meet the challenge, we suggest the following pacing:

- Week 1: Start by familiarizing yourself with the course, study the case study and Performance Assessment instructions. Study through Sections 1-2 of the course and watch all the included videos frequently referring to the case study and task instructions.

- Week 2: Study through Sections 2-3 of the course and watch all the included videos frequently referring to the case study and task instructions.

- Week 3: Study through Sections 4 and review Section 5 of the course and watch all the included videos frequently referring to the case study and task instructions.

- Week 4: Complete the Performance Assessment.

Don't forget, your course instructor is here to help! If this plan doesn't fit well with the amount of time you believe you'll need for this course, be sure to contact your course instructor to discuss a customized pacing plan that will work for you!
